

The Harvest Moon - For several evenings, the moonrise comes soon after sunset. This results in an abundance of bright moonlight early in the evening, which was a traditional aide to farmers and crews harvesting their summer-grown crops.

Hence, it's called the "Harvest" Moon!

Summer continues tomorrow with a sunny Market Day and temperatures in the high 70's. There will be more apples - the Honey Crisp are particularly tasty. This apple was developed at the University of Minnesota and released in 1991. It is a hybrid of the cultivars Keepsake x Northern Spy. An excellent eating apple. And there is still corn and the beginning of the fall vegetables and pumpkins.

See you at the Market !

Peter Nyberg, founder and owner of Hearth Artisan Bread, rings the bell to open the 14th Market Day. He and his team have been handcrafting some of the country's finest breads since 2010 in Plymouth. Now available at the Market.
